WORKMAN CHAPEL'S BEST HOMECOMING

BIGGEST CROWD CAME IN 400 AUTOMOBILES

MALE QUARTET POPULAR

Solo by Floyd Lunsford Is Feature of Program—Principal Address by Rev. R. E. Snodgrass

"The biggest homecoming we ever had, except, maybe—"

And the oldtimers at Workman Chapel went back over the twenty other homecomings recalling how the crowd in such and such a year had filled the church and overflowed the yard, but always they ended up with: "Nope, this is the best we ever had". Stant Garten, gateman who, single-handed directed parking of the automobiles which came from all parts of the county, estimated the number of them at 400 at the least. Almost every car carried its maximum quota of passengers, indicating a total attendance of near 2,000. In the church yard itself there were four long rows of automobiles, while in the grove there were two more double rows and lined along the road and scattered among the trees were still other cars, with here and there a driving team.

The dinne rwas spread at 12 o'clock on a row of long tables in the grove, and the singing and speaking from a speakers' stand deeper among the trees. The pews were carried from the church to supplement the permanent benches, but the major part of the listeners stood or sat on the ground.

Irvin Peery was in charge of arrangements stand introduced the speakers an dsingers. George Walker hauled water in a big tank, and D. Murphy commandeered all the ice in Burlington Junction.

Most of the crowd came before dinner. The morning program began at 11 o'clock with music by the Women's Neighborhood Club. The morning sermon was by the Rev. A. F. Dugger. Vocal solos were given by Miss Ona Blain of Clearmont and by little Miss Bonnie Koger, 4 years old.

After dinner, at which futile efforts were made to make an impression on the piles of chicken, pie and cake taken from bulging baskets, the second part of the day's program began at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Dugger gave the opening prayer, and a ladies quartet and a double quartet from Pickering sang. The Rev. J. V. Hawk, pastor of the Methodist church at Pickering, spoke on "The Unconsumed Message".

The male quartet from Maryville composed of the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, Ernest Lunsford, W. E. Goforth and Floyd Lunsford, was called back for a second song, and Miss Blain sang "Whispering Hope". Mr. Snodgrass then gave a semi-patriotic address, declaring patriotsm and religion to be the foundation of our national greatness and urging optimism during the present period of money stringency.

The closing feature of the program was a tenor solo by Floyd Lunsford who sang "The End of a Perfect Day", without accompaniment. The benediction was given by the Rev. Mr. Hawk.

The Chapel this year was in perfect repair. Newly refinished on the inside and glistening with a fresh coat of paint on the outside, it excited admiration in the visitors who inspected it. The graveyard, too, is well-kept, beautified with many flowers and handsome stones.

BOY SCOUTS TO ORGANIZE FOR SUMMERS ACTIVITY

Will Meet In Recital Hall Next Friday Night to Plan Camp—Must Pay Dues

Troops One and Two of the Maryville Boy Scouts will meet Friday evening in the recital hall of the Conservatory of Music for the purpose of re-registration. Boys who have not paid their dues for the past year will not be registered.

For the past five years the Scouts have gone on a camp and the question of perpetuating the idea will be discussed.

The leaders of the troops will be the same this summer as heretofore. Marve Peery is Scoutmaster of Troop 1 with Paul Miller as his assistant and Frank Cummins is Scoutmaster of Troop 2 with Clifford Hull as his assistant.

Many of the boys who were in the troops last year failed to pay their annual dues. "Marve and I refuse to hold the sack this year. If they don't pay their dues they will not be registered," said asisstant Scoutmaster Hull.

MAY RID CITY OF DANGEROUS CORNER

WABASH CONSENTS TO CHANGE AT FOURTH AND DUNN

COST IS ONLY OBSTACLE

Elimination of Two Sharp Turns Has Been Urged for Years—Much Traffic There

If the cost is not excessive, the dangerous double turn at the Wabash feight station at the corne rof Fourth and Dunn Streets will be eliminated by rounding the two sharp corners in accordance with plans drawn by Joe Reece, acting city engineer, after consultation with engineers of the Wabash Railroad.

There hase been agitation for years to eliminate the hazard at that corner, past which goes most of the traffic to and from the State Teachers' College. Attorney W. A. Blagg recently took the matter up with the officials of the railroad, and their engineers made a visit two or three weeks ago, after which they sent blue prints showing what changes they would be willing to allow.

Following these recomendations, the city engineer and Mayor F. P. Robinson have staked out the proposed changes. The only obstacle now in the way of making the corner safe is its cost, which may be more than the city finances can stand at present. Mayor Robinson is having estimates made and a decision will be made soon.

"I doubt whether we shall be able to finance the change this year," he said, "but undoubtedly we can do it next year. When the city went under the commission form of government, there was a debt of almost $9,000. By using some of this year's revenue the debt has been wiped out, but it has left the city without some improvemenis that ought to be made and the streets in bad shape. I have a number of ideas for improvements. I doubt whether we can make them this year, but it can be done next year without any question."

Wabash officials ahve been reluctant to consent to the rounding of their corner, as it takes away some of their limited loading space. While the strip they offer is not so wide as the city officials would ilke to have, it would help a great deal.

LEWIS STRENGTH WORRIES COMPERS ADHERENTS

Support of Miners' Head Say They Will Stick Until He Refuses the Office

Denver, June 20.—John Lewis, president of the United Workers of America officially announced his candidacy for president of the American Federation of Labor today.

Denver, June 20—Supporters of John Lewis, president of the united mine workers who is being boomed to succeed Samuel Gompers as president of the American Federation of Labor served notice today that his hat is in the ring to remain until he breaks his silence and removes it.

The most important development is the open acknowledgment by men close to Samuel Gompers that a big campaign is on to elect the miners head and considerable worry is being caused in the Gompers camp as a result.

Mrs. Frank T. Hall and daughter, Mary Vivian, returned Saturday night from a three weeks' visit in Camden Point with Mrs. Hall's mother, Mrs. T. M. Baughman and other relatives, and to attend the commencement exercises of the Missouri Christian College.

Mrs. T. M. Trullinger left Wednesday evening for Denver, Colo., where she will visit her husband, who is taking treatment under the direction of Dr. Ware of that place.

Until Electric Generator Is Repaired Service Will be From Uptown Fire Reservoir

If your city water supply is muddy today, it is because it is being pumped from the uptown fire reservoir. One of the electric generators at the river pumping station broke down early this morning, forcing the use of the fire pumps and the fire reservoir.

Men are at work now on the broken generator, and it will be repaired as speedily as possible. Until the repairs are completed, water users must be content with the water from the fire reservoir.

CIRCUIT COURTS MAY NOT BE HELD

SUSPENDING REDISTRICTING LAW MAY MEAN A TANGLE.

TO REFER 16 HYDE LAWS

It Appears That Every One of Governor's Measures Has Been Suspended—Med. School Bill, Too.

The effect of the referendum on the circuit courts of the state for the next eighteen months was being discussed today by several Maryville attorneys and several were of the opinion that unless this special session of legislature makes some changes no circuit courts can be held.

The referendum was invoked only on the bill creating the new circuits, but nothing was done by the Democratic organization to hold up a companion bill setting the time, term and place of courts in the new districts. Many of the districts overlap. The result will be that if the circut judges hold over under the old law, the second bill will require them to hold court in towns in other districts.

It probably will take the supreme court or the legislature to straighten out the complex situation caused by the referendum.

Sixteen bills passed by the last legislature will be referred to the people for their approval or rejection at the November, 1922, election.

The last referendum petitions filed were for submitting what is called the "medical school bill." The other fifteen measures are:

House bill 718, creating a department of public welfare, and taking over the duties and functions of the State Pure Food and Drug Commissioner, Beverage Inspector, Hotel Inspector and Oil Inspector.

House bill 721 a separate measure abolishing the office of Oil Inspector.

House bill 720, abolishing the office of Beverage Inspector.

Committee substitute for House bills 462 and 609, consolidating the various agricultural activities of the state in a Department of Agriculture and creating the office of Commissioner of Agriculture.

House bill 648, consolidating the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Bureau of Mine Inspection and Commission for the Blind.

House bill 434, creating a Department of Budget, which was recommended by both political parties in their platforms, and taking over the functions of the State Tax Commission.

Senate bills 4, 5, 6 and 7, which abolished the justices of peace and constables in Jackson county and established a court of five justices and a constable.

House bill 684, laying out new judicial districts for Missouri.

Workmen's compensation, a measure supported by the Missouri State Federation of Labor and the Employers' Association of Missouri.

Medical college bill, giving to the courts the right to review the action of the State Board of Health in refusing to give an examination to an applicant for license to practice medicine.

Not a few Republicans say the weak spot in the governor's legislative program was in permitting the bill rearranging the judicial circuits to become a part of his legislative program. This legislated circuit judges out of office two years before the terms for which they had been elected, and while the governor carried out his promise to reappoint such judges where the rearranged districts would permit of such appointments the measure proved unpopular, particularly in the country districts, and helped the Democratic committee in its attack upon all of the governor's legislative program.

The Men's Bible Class of the First Christian church lost 32 points to their Clarinda rivals yesterday in the intercity contest to be closed in two weeks with the losers giving the winners a big feed. The Maryville men compiled only 873 points, while the Iowans were scoring 905.

MARYVILLE YOUTH TO PASADENA MEET

HAROLD RYAN WILL COMPETE WITH BEST HIGH JUMPERS

HAS CLEARED 6FT. 5IN.

Will Represent Epsilon Eta Athletic Club of St. Louis—Has Long List of Winnings

Harold Ryan, son of Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Ryan, has been offered a place on the track team of the Epsilon Eta Athletic Club of St. Louis, which will compete in the national outdoor A. A. A. U. championships at Pasadena, Cal., July 4 and 5. He has not yet decided whether he will make the trip.

Ryan is one of the leading high jumpers in the United States. He consistently clears the bar at heights above six feet, and has a mark of 6 ft. 5 in. At Pasadena, he will compete not only against this country's best but with the jumpers of foreign countries, as the meet is international in scope. France will be represented by the pick of its athletes

Ryan began practicing his favorite event when he was a student in St. Patrick's school. As a student in Catholic University at Washington, D. C., in 1915, '16 '17 and 1918 he competed in the South Atlantic meet, the Johns Hopkins invitation meet, and various other big eastern open and dual meets. He took first place in the high jump in all these meets except one at Baltimore, in which he jumped from scratch while others were given favorable handicaps. Although he made the highest actual jump, 5 ft. 11 1-2 in., a man with a five inch handicap was given first place. His best jump in the eastern meets was 6ft. 2 1-2 in.

In 1918-19, Ryan attended Colorado University. As it was his first year there, he was not allowed to compete in collegiate meets, but he set a new record for the school of 6 ft. 3 in. His fourth and last year of collegiate competition was spent at St. Louis University, where he holds the St. Louis municipal record at 6 ft. 1 in. and the Junior A. A. U. record at the same height. It was in June 1920 while jumping for the Epsilon Eta Athletic Club, that he cleared the bar at 6 ft. 5 in., a mark beaten by only a few of the world's best high jumpers.

The same summer he qualified at Chicago for the Olympic meet at Antwerp, Belgium, but he remained in school and completed the course for his A. B. degree.

If he decides to go to Pasadena, Ryan will be accompanied by Loren Murchison, who holds or is co-holder of world's records in all dash events from 50 to 300 yards, with the exception of the 220-yard mark recently set by Charles Paddock.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

FACTS ABOUT MISSOURI

The first white men to tread Missouri soil were DeSoto and his company, who entered the southeast corner of the state and traveled north to the crest of the Ozarks and then west and out the southwest corner into Arkansas in the year 1541.

Missouri is the center state of the United States. There are five states between Missouri and the Atlantic and five between Missouri and the Pacific, two between Missouri and Canada and two between Missouri and the Gulf of Mexico.

The French government claimed the whole Mississippi valley, including Missouri and discoveries of Joliet and Marquette in 1673; Hennepin in 1680 and Lasalle in 1687.

The first fort established in Missouri was Fort Orleans, founded, by a French captain, De Bourgmont, probably Malta Bend, Saline county, in 1723. It was destroyed by indians in 1726.

Lead mining was begun in Missouri by the French in 1719 near Fredericktown in Madison county. This was the first Missouri industry.

The first permanent settlement in Missouri was established in Ste. Genevieve as early as 1722.

The territory of Louisiana, which included Missouri, was ceded by France to Spain in 1762.

St. Louis was founded by Piere Laclede Liguest in 1764 and was made capital of upper Louisiana by Spain in 1765.

Boonslick settlement was made in what is now Howard county, in 1810.

France acquired Missouri from Spain by the treaty of St. Ildefonso in 1880.

Missouri passed under the sovereignty of the United States by the terms of the Louisiana Purchase which was completed April 30, 1803. The actual transfer of the territory from France to the United States was made March 10, 1804.

The district of Upper Louisiana which included Missouri was a part of Indiana Territory from October 1, 1804, to March 3, 1805. The first civil governor was General William Henry Harrison, who was at that time governor of Indiana Territory.

The district of Louisiana was organized as a territory of the first (or lowest) class March 3, 1805, with General James Wilkerson as governor. It was made a teritory of the second class and its name changed to Missouri in 1812.

The "Missouri Gazette", the first paper west o fthe Mississippi river was established in July, 1806, in St. Louis by Joseph Charless. This paper later be came the "Republican" then the "Republic and was published continually until 1919 when it was purchased by the Globe Democrat and its publication ceased.

Lamino, Cooper county, named for river. The river was named by Renaudiere, "Riviere a la Mine", in 1723. In 1729 Phillip Renault, director general of mines of the French colonies in America, sent prospecting parties into the territory west of the Mississippi to seek gold and silver. This party under Renaudiere discovered lead in 1723 and LaMine or Lamine in a contraction of the original French name.

Making Homes of Ammunition Boxes

Near Eberswalde, Germany, the building shortage is being met through the erection of unique homes—unique because of the material being used in their construction. A MUSICAL PRODIGY AT 10.

Little Girl Began Playing Piano at Age of Fifteen Months.

New York, June 20.—A ten-year-old musical prodigy lives in Wood-Ridge, New Jersey, just across the Hudson. The child is Grace Sharp Castagnetta, a daughter of American parents. Despite her extraordinary talent for music Grace is a very human little girl with every normal characterisite of hundreds of other American children.

At the age of fifteen months Grace found her way to the piano. At first she just liked the sound of the separate notes that her baby fingers touched as they trailed over the pretty keyboard. Very soon she discovered the beauty that lies in the weaving of chords. And at that tender age, without knowledge of music, for her parents could not play the piano, the child worked out for herself her own idea of music. Her ear delicately attuned to harmony, the baby was able to harmonize in one octave.

At the age of three little Grace was playing in concert. She had but to hear a song once and she could reproduce it on the piano, and often improvise upon it, making the rendition doubly beautiful and twice as intricate. More than that, she could transpose the piece into any key requested, though she knew nothing of keys.

When she was seven years old Grace attracted the attention of Dr. N. J. Elsenheimer, who gave her first lessons. The lessons have continued now for three years, in which time she has given three recitals of her own. At each recital the little artist rendered works of the masters, such as selections from Liszt, Greig, Paradisi, Debussy, Mac Dowell and Schuman; sonatas from Beethoven, Scarlatti and Mozart, as well as Bach's English Suites.

Grace attends public school every day and stands as high in her studies as she does in the pursuit of music. She attends Sunday School, in fact she has not missed Sunday School in years.

SAYS THERE IS PLENTY OF LABOR FOR HARVEST

Department of Agriculture Agents Report Supply in Excess of Demand, Wages Under $3 a Day

Advices received by the Department of Agriculture from its agents in the field indicate that there will be no general shortage of labor for the wheat harvest, and that in some areas there will be a decided surplus.

In Kansas, where the harvest begins about June 15 in the southern tier of counties, the supply of labor is already in excess of the demand. In that State wages for shockers do not run over $3 a day with board and lodging.

In Texas, where harvest is already in progress, there seems to be labor enough to meet all demand, with the possible exception of the "Panhandle" district. In Texas harvest wages run from $2 to $2.50 a day.

In the northern wheat States the situation has not yest developed sufficiently to make possible reliable estimates as to the demands for outside labor, but it seems porbable that the labor market will be comparatively easy in most localities, with the prevailing wage not over $3 a day.

Jan Olesen's Awakening

By MURIEL BLAIR

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

From the first moment of his opening the door Jan Olesen felt a presentiment of disaster. There was something in the atmosphere of the boarding house, with its stuffy hall, its gilt mirrors, its glaring plush ornamentation, that sickened him, so that when the little maid came forward and asked whom he wished to see he could hardly utter Mina's name.

Jan Olesen, fresh from the west, where he had established himself as a prosperous farmer within three years after his arrival from Sweden, a penniless youth, looked in surprise at the little servant's troubled face.

"You are from my country?" he asked in his native tongue, and at the sound of the words the little fair-haired maid-of-all-work broke down and cried.

"I—I haven't heard the old speech for so long," she said, and then began smiling through her tears as the sun smiles out of a blue sky.

Jan Olesen looked at her in grave compassion.

"Do they treat you well here, child?" he asked.

She shrugged her shoulders. "Some of the boarders do," she answered. "Theatrical folks are mostly kind. But Miss Dalrymple—she's a terror. She's leading lady in the 'Red Slipper' chorus, you know—and, say," she added, breaking into the easily acquired slang of America, "what do you think? She's Swedish, too, for all her American airs and English name."

Olesen clutched at the wall to save himself from falling. Before his eyes a mist was swimming. His mind went back to the day when he, renting a cheap hall bedroom almost in the next city block, had met Mina Jensen. She was just such a little maid as this, newly arrived from the old country. He remembered her shy smile, her engaging frankness. And they had become engaged, and he had gone west to make his fortune. Now after three years he had returned—to what?

Through the mist broke a scent of patchouli. Out of it he saw a woman approach, with fashionably done hair and gaudy dress; and through the floating clouds he saw a slim hand, much bejeweled, stretch forth to his.

"Why, if it isn't Jan!" exclaimed Mina. "I guess you didn't know me, Jan. Well, what are you staring at?" she continued to the girl. "Get busy with your work, whatever it is! Ain't she the impudent thing! Just a greenhorn, you know! Come right in, Jan, and tell me about yourself and if you've brought back a wad to blow in in New York. And say, Jan, can that stuff you wrote me about getting married and show me a good time in this burg instead. Nix on a Minnesota farm for mine!

"Poor Jan! You haven't learned much in Minnesota, Jan!" she said at parting.

She had refused to discuss their marriage; instead, he was to take her to dinner on the next evening. Now the fabric of ambitions which he had built up was shattered.

But in the loneliness of his room that night his thoughts gradually began to flow in their accustomed groove again.

He had resolved to tell her everything on the following night; all his aims and aspirations; to beg her to come back with him to Minnesota. There, on their lonely farm, they would settle, as the old folks had done in Sweden, they would be happy. . .

He fell asleep at last, happy in his dreams.

But on the next night the old feeling came over him again at the sight of the hall, the scent of perfume, the faded tawdriness of it. He hesitated upon the threshold; he could not enter.

And the little maid's eyes were red from tears.

"You have been crying, my dear," said Olesen.

"I'm to be sent away," she said, her voice quavering.

"Away? Well, but there are better places."

"O, yes. I'm not afraid. But she said—"

"She? Who?"

"Miss Dalrymple. She said—I can't tell you—well, that I didn't behave—that I talked to the men here—that I talked to you yesterday. And she pays twenty a week, so Mrs. Simmons is afraid to affront her. And she said that if I didn't go she would.

For an instant he pondered; then, taking the girl by the arm, he led her to the door.

"My dear," he said, "in the state I come from there are broad acres of land—land like we have at home, with forests and lakes. And there are no Miss Dalrymples there, and women are treated differently. Would you like to come with me to see the place I'm speaking of? There, don't let those tears come. No, never mind your hat; there's a department store round the corner where you can get all you need. But hurry, for it closes at five, and we've got to get to the city hall first and take out our marriage license."

Proved Anyway.

MORTGAGE TAX LAW INTO EFFECT TODAY

Recorder Here Ready to File—Payment of Mortgage Tax Exempts Mortgage From all Other Taxes

The new mortgage recording tax law passed by the last Missouri legislature went into effect today.

The new law provides that any person, who is a resident of the state, on filing a mortgage, may pay to the county recorder a tax of 15 cents on each $100 for each year represented in the mortgage. Payment of the tax exempts the mortgage from all other taxes. The law provides that a mortgage already recorded, at the request of the holder of the mortgage, can come under the provisions of the new law for the unexpired terms of the mortgage.

From the tax the state, county and city each receives five cents. However, the law provides that the county court must make an order and the city court council pass an ordinace adopting the law, before the county or city can receive the tax.

It is not compulsory that a holder of a mortgage shall file under the new law. He can file his mortgage under the old law if he desires.

Infinitives and the Axe.

"There are some men who would no more split an infinitive than they would split their father's head with an axe, and who, when anybody else splits one, split their sides; there are others who, on occasion, will as cheerfully split an infinitive as a soda.

"Far be it from me to any longer than I am bound dwell on a subject on which people are apt to so violently differ. But it is, I feel, my duty to briefly confess that there frequently are places in which splitting an infinitive secures an additional emphasis which could not be secured without the split and places in which an infinitive that is not split make one at once conscious that the author has tried to, at all costs, avoid a split infinitive with the result that his expression seems strained.

"I seldom split an infinitive. When I do I shall not feel called upon to explain why I do."—From "Life and Letters" by J. C. Squire.

"NO NATION CAN WALK ALONE SAYS MEXICAN PRESIDENT

HIS NATION WANTS PEACE

"Mexico Has No Grievances," He Says in Appeal for Co-operation of United States.

New York, June 20.—The need for the nations of the New World to stand together in friendship and understanding is pointed out by President Alvaro Obregon of Mexico, in a statement prepared exclusively for the July issue of "Hearst's International." President Obregon predicts that it is only a question of time until all misunderstandings that may have arisen through mistakes of past administrations in Mexico will be eradicated.

The statement, in part follows:

"The civilization of one-half of the world is at the crossroads. One sign points toward a continuation of wars and unrest, the other toward peace, co-operation and a fair understanding between nations.

"Mexico, as well as other nations, stands today at this crossroads, and she is meditating as to the choice of her path. She has already taken the first steps along the road of peace and prosperity.

"No nation can walk alone; all need mutual understanding in order to prosper. Mexico, in her foreign relations, has already cleared away many misunderstandings. Neither the people nor the Government of Mexico have any grievances against either the people or the Government of the United States.

"For ten years Mexico has suffered all the hardships of civil wars and revolutions. There has taken place a great spiritual and moral cleansing, though it has been terribly costly. Half a million of her sons have been killed, and much of her material property and treasure have been wrecked and ruined.

Protection Is Guaranteed.

"Today Mexico is ready to receive foreign investors and foreign settlers and give full protection to their rights and properties. Claims for property damages suffered during the revolutions will be submitted, and a decree has already been issued fixing a certain term for submission of these claims. Mexico has no desire or intention to evade her responsibilities."

The Mexican President then went on to say that Mexico is taking steps to meet her foreign financial obligations. He continued:

"Mexico appoaches her whole future dealings (with outside nations, particularly the United States) with a spirit of fairness and generosity. She desires no favors that she is not willing and able to return with interest.

"Certain powerful foreign interests, notably the oil corporations, have, due to misunderstandings, compelled the Mexican Government to assume an attitude of protection toward her interests. Mexico, however, is determined to act with justice. She has the unquestionable right to protect her own national dignity. Patience and trust are needed on all sides."

League of the Americans.

President Obregon then pointed out that 85 per cent of Mexico's foreign trade is with the United States and that Mexican exports to the United States increased from $49,793,323, in 1909, to $151,455,101 in 1919. The statement continued:

"Geographical proximity is only one of the many ties that bind the United States and Mexico together. Economically and historically the two countries are joined firmly and everlastingly.

"In fact, all the Latin American countries must look toward the United States as the main factor in their commercial and industrial development. Pan-Americanism means something vital and fine. Removed from the intrigues and ancient rivalries and jealousies of the Old World, this New World must stand bound together for mutual protection and co-operation. Unconsciously their very destines from them into a League of the Americas."

Mrs. Robert Nigh and Mrs. Ben Bosch of Sheridan were visitors in Maryville Saturday.

Every comfort of home in Yellowstone Park

"Where you can photograph a wild bear and eat a course dinner in the same hour."

"And you can travel and live in perfect comfort! That is almost the most astonishing thing about Yellowstone. You perhaps can see the buffalo from your seat in a comfortable touring car. You can see the Canyon and the geysers and the Grand Tetons and a dozen bold mountain lakes and streams and yet sleep in as good a bed as you left at home. Literally, the world has nothing like this. Other parks have one attraction, several; but none has all these. And no discomfort or danger or weariness will mar your day's delights." —Emerson Hough

When you visit Yellowstone National Park, you have the choice of hotels or permanent camps—both under supervision of the United States Government. Such hotels as Old Faithful Inn, Mammoth Hot Springs Hotel, Grand Canyon Hotel and Lake Colonial Hotel are indeed unusual. Permanent camps are villages of tent-houses among the pines—all the joy of camping in the open without a single one of its drawbacks.

Democrts Say Hyde Wants Consolidation to Build up Machiine

Jefferson City, June 20.—Chairman C. E. Yancey and other officers of the Democratic State Committee replied Saturday to Gov. Hyde's assaults upon the referendum in a recent statement, in which they charged Hyde with desiring the consolidations of departments in order to build up a political machine. The wholesale invocation of the referendum upon the important acts of the General Assembly was defended, and it was charged that the measures were passed through coercive tactics by Gov. Hyde.

The statement follows:

"The Democratic State Committee, in compliance with the expressed will of more than 75,000 citizens of Missouri of all political parties, has presented to the Secretary of State petitions invoking the referendum on a number of objectionable enactments of the Fifty-first General Assembly. It is proposed to submit to the people, before the bills become effective, measures providing for the establishment of the new department of agriculture, a new department of labor, a new department of public welfare, so-called, and a budget department, known as the consolidation bills.

It is proposed that the bill reapportioning the judicial circuits of the state, so as to remove judges elected by the people and to facilitate partisan control of the judiciary of the state, shall be submitted to a popular vote before an iniquitous gerrymander may be effectuated. It is proposed to invoke the referendum upon bills abolishing minor courts in Jackson county, and recreating similar courts for the specific and openly avowed purpose of substituting appointees of the Governor for officials chosen by the people, in accordance with the law and long established custom.

A Deliberate Movement.

"In asking that these measures be taken to the electorate of Missouri, for their approval or rejection, our decision has been well considered and deliberate. At the conclusion of the regular session of the legislature, which was characterized by unprecedented extravagance, and the use of arbitrary and coercive methods in controlling the action of Senators and members of the majority party in the Legislature, a committee of able and experienced legislators, selected at a general conference, carefully reviewed the work of the Legislature and specifically recommended that bills named be taken into the referendum. The decision to proceed with the necessary steps prescribed by the constitution and the law, therefore, represented the best judgment of Democratic Senators, representatives and the party organization.

"We recognize the referendum as an institution designed by the people for their own protection against unwise legislation of far-reaching effect. Our action is inspired by the firm belief that the use of the referendum in this instance is entirely proper, and, as we have not at any time encouraged abuses of the constitutional privileges thus provided, we repudiate the suggestion that our move in this behalf is actuated in any sense or in any degree by any other consideration save that of the highest and most vital public interest.

"In connection with the somewhat unreasonable attitude of the present executive, we invite attention to declarations contained in the platform of the Progressive party adopted in 1912, when the present Governor was the nominee of that party for Attorney General. This platform declared that 'in order to maintain the improved standards of living, the people must be able to control more directly in political and government affairs,' and further declared that 'we approve the state initiative and referendum and favor its extension to city and county matters.' We hold that the principle stated in this platform, which is not essentially different from platform declarations of the Democratic party upon the same subject, fully justifies our action in this instance.

Dominated by Caucus.

"The Legisature which enacted the laws we propose to take before the people was dominated by a party caucus, in which decisions were arbitrary and intolerant. In the enactment of the bills referred to, this Legislature, pursuant to the peremptory demands of the executive for enlarged power and centralization of official functions, ignored the pledges made to the people in the platform of its own party convention in such fiagrant measure as to arouse general indignation. For instance, the Republican state platform of 1920 contained the solemn pledge to bring about a fair redistricting of the state on a population and not a partisan basis.' In open repudiation of this specific assurance, the legislature proceeded to rearrange the judicial circuits of the state so as to reduce the number of circuits in territory hitherto Democratic although increasing the number of circuits in the Republican city of St. Louis, endeavoring to make the entire measure effective immediately. Heretofore Missouri legislators, in making judicial reapportionments, provided in all cases that the new arrangements should not become effective until the expiration of the terms of the incumbents, but this body, influenced by the most extreme partisan demands undertook to terminate the tenure of all the Circuit Judges of the states, vesting in the Governor the authority to name new judges to take the place of judges elected by the people, all with the manifest intent of committing an almost inconceivable partisan assault upon the integrity of the state's judiciary. We have asked that this bill be suspended until the people are permitted to pass upon it.

New Offices Created.

"The Republican party platform of 1920 contained a pledge to bring about the 'elimination of useless offices,' but the legislature, impelled by inordinate thirst for authority on the part of the Governer, proceeded instead to create new departments with vastly increased powers, augmented appropriations and enlarged staffs, without the slightest regard for the party's promises to reduce state expenditures by eliminating useless offices. In creating these new departments the Legislature proceeded to make two sets of appropriations, one for the new departments and the other for the bureaus the new departments were designed to supersede. Appropriations were made whereby activities of the state costing $1,500,000 during the last two years of Democratic administration, would cost the state under this state, costing $1,500,000 during the next biennial period. A partisan commissioner was substituted for the bipartisan state board of agriculture, heretofore free from political control or partisan relationship of any character. Wholly dissimilar bureaus, operating in different fields, were consoldiated into a so-called department of public welfare, under a single commissioner, with heads of bureaus substantially the same as now constituted, at the sacrifice of efficiency and economy. A department of labor was created to take over the work of existing bureaus, concerning whose work there has never been complaint. Assuming to establish a budget system, a department of budget was created, with extraordinary powers over the expenditure of state funds, so as to vest in a single official autocratic functions, impossible of execution, without confusion or scandal. We have asked that these bills be suspended until a general inquiry into their significance and intent can be carried on in a public forum without the intervention of a Czar-like master of a party legislative caucus.

Great Political Machine.

"Our procedure in this movement does not relieve the Governor and his administration of responsibility in any degree. This legislation was conceived by him, planned by him and agreed to by a Legislature dominated by his will. We charge that the present state administration has urged the passing of these measures for the unquestionable purpose of establishing a political machine of great proportions at the expense of the state. We invite the most careful scrutiny of the work of the administration, of the public utterances of its head and his careless and reckless disregard of consideration of economy or fairness. We ask public observation of his frequent oppressive abuses of executive power.

"In submitting these measures, which go to make up an essential part of an extensive party program, we propose to take into issue before the people of Missouri both the conduct and the policies of the executive, and bring about a thorough examination before the voters of the state of his whole program, which constitutes, in our judgment, a menace to the public interest and an open affront to the order and dignity of the state. No executive since reconstruction days has ever manifested such amazing contempt for the principles and provisions of the law; no General Assembly has ever appropriated such great sums for the conduct of the state government, and no administration in the history of the state has ever sought to impose such tremendous tax burdens upon the people. We decline to believe that the people are in sympathy with the methods and policies of the present state administration and, accordingly, we propose to put them to the test to the end that there may be restored in Missouri an administration considerate of the law and regardful of the spirit of economy, which should control official servants of the public."
